

PRESS RELEASE

April 4, 2014

Springwood School Tintype Workshop

Pictured above is Atlanta based artist Kendra Connelly instructing Mrs. Ammerman's advanced art students

Pictured above are Springwood art students participating in the tintype workshop

Atlanta based artist, Kendra Connelly, instructed Mrs. Tiffany Ammerman's advanced art students during a tintype workshop that was hosted by the Art Department at Springwood School. The art form was popular during the Civil War era as well as the early 20th century. The students were informed about the specific chemicals that are utilized during the process as well as the history behind tintype and the notable photographers that continue to use the process. They were given a demonstration and then allowed to complete and develop the photographs themselves. Emphasis was placed on composition, light and timing the exposure correctly. The students then were allowed to take home their finished photographs. Springwood School would like to thank the LaGrange based Chick Fil A for supporting the program with a catered lunch. We would also like to thank our sponsors for their charitable and thoughtful contributions: Charter Bank, Capital City Bank and Susie Lanier-Maxwell.