Springwood donates to Relay for Life on behalf of students and Mrs. Oswalt

Wednesday, May 10 was a special day at Springwood School. Students, staff, and parents joined together to show support for one of their high school English teachers, Susan Oswalt, who is currently in an ongoing treatment process fighting cancer. Across the Springwood campus, students and staff at Springwood put their Caps on to support the fight for a cure for Cancer. Not only in support of Mrs. Oswalt, but also in support of all the cancer patients who lose their hair during treatments to fight this disease. Student leaders from the Student Government Association took up donations for the “Caps on 2 Cure Cancer” cause during first period classes. During the morning high school Sessions assembly program, students from K4-12 joined to honor Mrs. Oswalt with a show of solidarity in all kinds of caps. After lunch, a group of students gathered to present Mrs. Oswalt with a mock check on her behalf for the American Cancer Society totaling $1,066.00.

On Wednesday afternoon, May 17, Springwood School, along with Mrs. Oswalt and some key students who helped with the cause, presented the donation to a local Relay for Life representative, Ashley Crane, who is the executive director of the Greater Valley Area Chamber of Commerce.
